Ex-Senator Palmer, who soon sails as minister to Spain, expects to return to the United States within a year or fifteen months. He will be welcomed back by every one who knows him personally.
While he was passing down Newspaper

Make it in round figures fifteen months, and you may expect to see me back in the United States. I would rather grub sage brush on my farm near Detroit and eat corn pone in my log cabin than live in the castles in Spain and make salaams to her King. I presume Spain will offer me some amusements for a few months; but after that my duties, although naturally onerous, will be irksome, and I will want to get back, if for no other reason, to cure a taint of homesickness."

What the Government Learned from the Militia at the Centennial Celebration. WASHINGTON, May 4.-Capt. Daniel M. Taylor, who was directed by the Secretary of War to observe the movements of the militia assembled in Few York on the occasion of the centennial celebration, with particular reference to the ability of the various commands to concentrate at a strategic point in a short time, has returned to this city and is preparing his report. He was much pleased with the result of his visit, and says that fully 40,000 militia-men poured into the city without disturbance, on time, and on an average of sixteen hours from the time they started from their homes. As the troop trains were delayed by the regular passenger, and were in cases sidetracked to permit other traffic to go on, Captain Taylor regards the time made as highly favorable, and as demonstrating that in case of need 70,000 militiamen could be assembled in New York within fifteen hours. The Fourth New York brigade, from outside the city, landed 2,134 men of their total strength of 2,250, at Weehawken, launched, were ferried over the river marched to Madison-square Garden and stacked arms, all in one hour and fifty minutes, and this despite the fact that the fer-

Deputies to Be Looked After. WASHINGTON, May 4.-Mr. George W. Cole, of Chicago, who was in Oklahoma when that Territory was thrown open to settlement, had a conference with Attorneygeneral Miller this afternoon in regard to the condition of government officers on that occasion. According to his statement. Marshal Jones, of Kansas, and nearly all of his seven hundred deputies, took illegal advantage of their office to get possession of choice lands. Mr. Cole said he was on the spot, and was prepared to substantiate his charges against Marshal Jones and deputies. "He said further that Marshal Needles and his deputies, of the Oklahoma district, were alleged to be equally culpable in the matter, but as he was not personally cogpizant of the facts so far as these officials were concerned, he did not care to be responsible for the charges against He had seen enough, however, his stay of three days in the territory to convince him that certain persons had been given unfair advantage in securing claims, and he deemed it his duty to bring the matter to the attention of the proper authorities. He said he had talked with Secretary Noble in regard to the matter, and it was at his suggestion that he had called upon the Attorney-general. The latter thanked him for his information, and assured him that the matter would be thoroughly investigated. He said he had already heard enough to satisfy him that some crooked business had been perpetrated in Oklahoma, and he was deter-mined that the offenders should be brought to justice if possible.

Inspector Frank D. Hobbs, of the General Land Office, in a letter dated Guthrie, Oklahoma, April 28, says: "The crowds at the office door have been very great, but the most perfect order has prevailed throughout, and in my experience I have never seen a better class of settlers at the opening

The Low Temperature Retarding Growth-Lack of Rain in Indiana.

WASHINGTON, May 4 .- Following is the weather-crop bulletin for the week ending

Saturday, May 4: Temperature-The week ending May 4 was dededly cooler than usual in all sections, except New England and northern Michigan. Over the wheat regions of the central valleys and the Northwest, and over the greater portion of the cotton region, the daily temperature ranged 3° to 6° below the normal, while in the upper Ohio vailey and in central Texas it was from 60 to 90 lower than usual. The general cool weather during the week has largely reduced the seasonal excess of temperature previously reported, but the season continues from seven to fourteen days earlier

Light Frecipitation—The rainfall for the week has been generally below the normal, although large excesses are reported in Virginia, northern New England, western New York, northern Michigan, southern Alabama and central Texas. Although the rainfall was deficient, well distributed showers occurred throughout New England, the Middle and Southern States. Very little rain

There was an excess of rainfall in Oregon and Mr. Miller said: "The President is not opposed to capital punishment, and, in the murder cases referred to, did nothing more nor less than he should have done. He has none of that maudlin sympathy which will interfere with the just Washington Territory, and generous showers occurred in northern California, which, improved the crop conditions section. Butter from Cows Fed on Cotton-Seed Meal

Washington, May 4 .- The Agricultural De-

from cows fed on cotton-seed meal, which produces unlooked-for results. The analysis showed remarkable points: First, a low percentage of volatile acids; second, a phenomenally high melting point; third, a strong persistence of the reducing agent. The first point is of importance, as showing that mixing cotton seed with the feed of cows in the South will tend to raise the melting point of butter, thus rendering it more

Professor Wiley says: "From an analytical point of view the results are of great impor-

A Peep Into the Sanctum Where She Writes Brews Tea and Works in a Crimson Gown.

NEW YORK, May 4.- The ladies of intensely fashionable interest have been for the week concerned in the centennial doings, and so publicly that their deeds are already in print. Let me, therefore, consider, instead, several ladies who are professionally famous, being careful to choose those whose actions are not apt to be mere exploits of self-advertising. For example, how does Miss Kate Field live, move and have her being? She makes her home in the Victoria Hotel. Her room is a parallellogram in shape, about treble its width in length. The folding bed, with its mirror panels, is stuck about with photographs, prints and cards. Bits of things decorate and crowd her mantel and piano shelves. Her little eastlake groans with books, some of them written by the owner, most of them by personal friends, and nearly all breathing with marginal notes. In a sunny window hangs a pet canary. A burnished kettle swinging on a blackened crane stands near a little tete-a-tete table spread for tea, with always a basket of oranges in the midst of the service, just for color. Only one other writing-table in all New York is more hopelessly littered with letters and papers, and that is Colonel Ingersoll's. Like the big, busy lawyer's, the letters lie open, and a hand high, with almost illegible memoranda penned or pinned in the corners. A visitor has to wonder whether they are all actual. Just room enough for the lady's writingpad and elbows is forced, and when the space narrows, as it does all the time, she scolds and paws, shoves the mass back and up, and the long-holdered, bristling pen is sent flying across the paper. She writes away until she gets a pain in her back, an ache in her arm, or a cramp in her hand and then climbs into her steamer chair—an old weather-beaten, storm-stained, sun-blistered piece of bamboo brought from Japan by a friend ten years ago, and which she has lived in and loved, and which followed her the whole length of the Pacific coast, from the peninsula of Alaska to that of lower Califorma. The chair is almost human in its adjustability, to quote its mistress, and like her has a variety of ups and downs. The right arm forms a shelf, on which she thumb-screws a pad, and, with an ink-jug near by, she lies back and writes as vigorously as though influenced by some deli-ciously revivifying tonic. At her work Miss Field nowadays wears a bright red satin dress, reformed after her own ideas, and touched up with frills and shells of soft lace. She has tiny feet, which she puts in the daintiest of slippers and the finest spun silk hosiery, and which she has a most coquetish way of crossing and uncrossing, while she reclines, working all the time, in her cane-bottom, slumber-robed steamer

THE FRENCH CIRCUS.

It Is an Entertainment of Daintiest Character -The Luxurious Life of the Horses.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal Paris, April 25 .- Paris women do not differ materially from New York women in personal appearance, in fact I notice a decided similarity in them. In facial loveliness perhaps the Americans are slightly in the lead, but here there is a piquancy of attire superadded to the mere physical excellence in almost each case which produces a charm amply atoning for whatever lack of intrinsic beauty there may be There is no better place to see a good specimen of the stylish Parisienne than at the circus. There are a great many things in the Champs Elysee, and among others is the circus. It is rather presumed on our side of the seas that the circus is essentially an American institution, and perhaps we do get a better idea of the old, uncomfortable and romantic ring performance, with the tulle skirts and spangles than they have over here. The circus in Paris is a straight-out parlor entertainment. There is a gentleman in evening dress who acts as the clown. The ladies all wear riding habits, and the men riders dress as you see them in Central Park. The spectators are of all sorts, of course, and it is like Barnum in Madison-square Garden, except that everything is quiet and refined, as if the performers were private ladies and gentlemen amusing themselves and their friends. But the great sight to see in the Paris circus. and that which can surely be pointed to with pride, is the stables underneath the immense building. The stud on the finest farm in Kentucky is a livery stable in comparison with the perfection of cleanness and high finish in this exquisite place. The floors glisten like a ball-room's, and each stall is furnished as daintily as a lady's boudoir. These circus horses have more luxurious accommodations than those of Queen Victoria's that I saw eating their leads off at the Windsor Castle stables few weeks ago. It is the custom to stroll through the halls in front of the stalls between the acts and I have seldom seen a more brilliant or peculiar effect than I witnessed the other evening, when an especially fine bill called out representative Paris. It was for all the world like walking through the splendid halls of a palace with horses ranged about on all sides. The liveries grooms, the clean, golden straw, ornamented, like a girl's hair, with roses, and the horses themselves as sleek as satin, formed under the electric lights, as dazzling a pict ure as you could possibly conceive of. was compelled to decide that the French can do one or two things much better than we choose to do them.

A Novel and Successful Pension Fraud. St. Louis, May 4.-The principals in an extraordinary pension fraud case were arrested different parts of the State yesterday. Jacob Little, a union soldier, died in Andersonville prison, and in 1871 his widow was awarded a pension of $36 a month. She married a man named Barnes, and died in 1872. Barnes took his wife's pension papers and came to Pettis county, Missouri, where he married a widow named Rogers. He induced her to impersonate the deceased wife, which she did successfull and drew the pension. Barnes, died in 187 and the widow took up with a man named Rit who was soon in possession of the pension story She wanted to quit drawing the money, but Rit compelled her to continue the fraud until the separated about a year ago. Then she ceased drawing the money, and the government desir ing to know why the money was not drawn started an investigation. After six months hard work the conspiracy was unearthed, and Mrs Barnes was arrested yesterday at Somerset Ozark county, and Ritt was taken into custody in this city. A Disastrous Buggy-Ride.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. CRAWFORDSVILLE. Ind., May 4.-Yesterday morning Robert Taylor, of Waynetown, came to this city and borrowed $300 from Johnson & Webster. loan agents. Taylor, after he secured the money, paid out $100, and proceeded to "have a time," and drank considerable whisky, He and Al Hampton secured a livery outfit and left this city on the Indianapolis road. About an hour after the couple left town Taylor was found by Vint Smith lying by the roadside in an unditch. When Taylor recovered from his uncon scious state he said that the horse had run away and he was thrown out against a telegraph pol-The $200 had been taken from Taylor, and the man he was with and horse were gone, and are still missing. Telegrams have been sent to all the surrounding towns, and a strict outlook is being kept for the missing man.

A Safe Blown Open.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. WINCHESTER, Ind., May 4 .- At Carlos City, a small station on the Ohio, Indiana & Western railroad twelve miles south of this city, the store of M. L. Mills was entered from the rear this morning, about 3 o'clock, by unknown parties, and the safe blown open and rifled of its cash. The burglars secured about $100 in money and goods of like value. The work appears to have been done by professionals. Miss Ladd, who has a millinery store not far from Mills's place of | G. Baird. business, was the only one who heard the noise when the safe was blown open.

Mattoon's Gas Wells.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal MATTOON, Ill., May 4 .- A large number of Mattooners visited the Wilson natural-gas well to night, four miles southwest of this city. The gas was piped to the front of the commodious farmhouse, and blowing out of an inch pipe made a broad blaze twenty feet in the air, lighting up the premises in grand style. Mr. Wilson United States cavalry, three enlisted Crow scouts has used the gas in his house for domestic and interpreters, under the command of Lieut.

purposes the past year, but this was the first public exhibition he gave of it. It is likely two natural-gas companies will rival each other in seeking to develop the Wilson and Cunningham wells, the latter being a mile nearer the city and directly south of it. Several parties from Chicago and other points are here or are represented, with a view to sinking drills, and the public interest in the development of natural gas is growing hourly. All feel that decisive work has been commenced in earnest and will continue until the gas reservoir under the city is

All the Bituminous Coal Miners in the State Will Go to Work on Monday.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. BRAZIL, Ind., May 4.—The bituminous machine miners have agreed with the operators on 4212 cents, with 5 cents advance on Nov. 1. bituminous miners have also gained a victory at 6212 cents, though for one month only. All bituminous miners in the State, numbering several thousand, will go to work on Monday. Much, however, depends on the block coal scale, yet to be fixed, and the delegate meeting to be held here Thursday.

Highwaymen Rifle a Mail Sack. EUREKA SPRINGS, May 4.—The Harrison and Eureka Springs stage-coach was held up by highwaymen this morning, in broad daylight, a short distance west of Green Forrest, Carroll county, and robbed. The mail sack, containing the registered packages, was cut open and the contents rifled. The driver can give no other description of the robbers than that there were two of them, and that both were masked. There were no passengers in the stage at the time of the robbery.

Miners Quit Work in Pennsylvania. PITTSBURG, Pa., May 4.—The miners of the Duquesne coal-works at Mucklerat, near this city, had a meeting to-day and decided to demand the district prices. This is a quarter of a cent per bushel more than they are now receiv-ing. On the refusal of the operators to accede to their demands they struck this afternoon. Three hundred men and boys are out.

A boy named Zimmerman, living near Old Fort Kearney, Neb., was fatally out in the head with a hatchet on Thursday by a man named Mitchell who had quarrelled with his father. Mitchell ran to his house, and returned with a hatchet but Zimmerman had disappeared, and he turned his attention to the boy, knocking him senseless and cutting a frightful gash in his head. The boy had taken no part in the quarrel.

The Supreme Court of Nebraska has just decided a question of interest to money-loaners. Growing corn had been mortgaged. After coming to maturity it was harvested and sold to grain-dealers. The owners of the mortgages sued them for the value of the corn. The court decides that growing corn is not the corn after it has been cribbed and sold; in other words, that the mortgage will not hold and the plaintiff cannot recover. Yesterday afternoon Hugh Cunningham. special night-watchman at Greenville, Miss., was shot, in an altercation, by Moses Western, colored, and instantly killed. The murderer was arrested. At night John Kelly, a bar-tender, shot and killed Lem Collier, an ex-policeman belonging to the better class of colored people The cause of the shooting was Collier's open sympathy with the murderer of Western.

The west bound passenger train on the Chi cago & Atlantic road, consisting of ten coaches of emigrants, had a miraculous escape from being wrecked a mile east of Lima., O., on Friday. A crossing over a culvert burned, and had fallen in. The engineer did not discover it until he was within 100 feet of it. When he saw the sparks he promptly applied the brakes, and stopped his train with the cow-catcher immediately over the ditch, which was about twenty-five feet deep and twenty feet wide, Sloux Indians on the War-Path. FT. CUSTER, M. T., May 4.—A Crow courier rode into this post yesterday and reported a party of strange Indians as crossing the Leghorn valley during the night, raiding the Crow reservation at a point about sixteen miles south of Custer. The raiders ran off a lot of stock belonging to the Crows and escaped into the hills. Some of the stolen stock was cut out from picket lines within twenty yards of their owners tepees. Immediately upon receipt of the intelligence the post commander ordered out a detachment of the first

FRIEND'S ADVICE.

"Don't give up, my poor, sick friend, While there's life there's hope, 'tis said; Sicker persons often mend; Time to give up when you're dead."

"Purer, richer blood you need; Strength and tone your system give; This advice be wise and heed-Take the G. M. D. and live."

"These letters stand for 'Golden Medical Discovery' (Dr. Pierce's), the greatest nutritive, tonic and blood-purifier of the age. "You have been told that consumption is incurable; that when the lungs are attacked by this malady, which is scrofula affecting the lungs and rotting them out, the sufferer is past all help, and the end is a mere question of time. You have noted with alarm the unmistakable symptoms of the disease; you have tried all manner of so-called cures in vain, and you are now despondent and preparing for the worst. But 'don't give up the ship' while Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery remains untried. It is not a cure-all, nor will it perform miracles, but it has cured thousands of cases of consumption, in its earlier stages, where all other means had failed. Try it, and obtain a new lease of life."

The St. Louis Suspended-Animation Case Sr. Louis, May 4.-The remarkable case of catalepsy reported yesterday, on information given by a sister of the young married woman who was rescued from the coffin, as alleged, has attracted wide-spread attention to-day, but the mystery surrounding the case is as deep as ever. The young woman who related the story, reiterated it to-day. The parties living at 721 South Fourth street, where the young woman resides, decline to reveal her name. The tenant at 721 is one Alois Zehrer. The local newspapers are working hard on the case in the hope of getting at the facts.
